“The Inner Sanctum of the Los Angeles Public Library”

Presented by

Julie Huffman

Beyond the “open shelves & stacks” of the History & Genealogy Dept. at the LAPL is a trove of material available to the public IF YOU MAKE A REQUEST. What is in the archives? And how do you request it? Among the archived stacks are family histories compiled by other researchers and donated to the LAPL. If the names are unique, like “Bocage”—all we need are the surnames. BUT if it is a common name, like “Nelson” then please furnish county and state locations. For example: Nelson-St. Croix County, Wisconsin. Find out how to make it happen.

Julie Huffman, Genealogy Librarian, will show samples of the material in the archives and explain how you can find material valuable to your own family research. You can make requests and see the results after the workshop!

The library will not be open for research.

“FamilySearch 101”

Presented by

Betty Isbell

Learn the latest "How-To" about one of the greatest online genealogical resources, and it's FREE to all. We will explore the various features of FamilySearch.org, including Records, Genealogies, Books, Wiki, and the Catalog, including ordering microfilm. We will also learn how to get "Help" at any time from FamilySearch consultants and other experts for U.S. and international research.

Betty M. Isbell has been interested in genealogical research for well over forty years. She has served as a Family History Center Director twice, and has taught genealogy classes to the public for over thirty years. Her specialty is descendant research and worked for a forensic research company locating missing and unknown heirs. She was a board member of several genealogical societies. She has attended over 10 national genealogical conference, as well as making many family research trips to Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia, Indiana, Illinois, New York, Connecticut and Vermont.

The library will not be open for research.
