What information do you want to list in the memorial? Provide that information here. You can list vital data (birth, death, marriage), family members, relationships, snippets of family tales, etc. Memorials without photos are acceptable. Depending on the size of the memorial, you can include more than one photo in the same ad. Verify all spellings, dates, etc. Please follow the guidelines for the number of words. Deceased individuals are the focus of Ancestors Gallery. If the photo is a family portrait or group shot, it is possible that one or more of the children may still be living. In that event, you may identify the person by name but do not include any personal information. Simply indicate "living" for that child.

Statement of Copyright

The Southern California Genealogical Society offers the Ancestors Gallery as a service to its members and to the genealogical community in general. Vintage photographs of deceased relatives, family members and other individuals published in the Jamboree Syllabus and on the scsgsgenealogy.com website remain the property of the contributor. Images may not be copied, used, or posted elsewhere, whether in print or electronic format, without written permission from the submitter.

Submitter warrants that he or she holds the necessary rights or ownership to display an image. Contact information, including name and email address, will be required with each submission. SCGS reserves the right to remove an image for any reason. SCGS takes no responsibility for checking the veracity of information, claims, and copyright status of materials included in Ancestors Gallery. Any legitimate claims of copyright infringement will result in the removal of the image as soon as possible.

I permit the publication of this photo and biographical information in the 2007 Jamboree Syllabus and on the SCGS website, and I permit the release of my contact information on the website and Syllabus.
