Names Expert La Reina Rule To Speak to Genealogists

LOS ANGELES — La Reina Rule, author and columnist, will be the speaker at the Friday meeting of the Southern California Genealogical Society, to be held in the clubroom of the California Federal Savings and Loan Bldg. at 611 Wilshire Blvd. at 7:30 p.m. She will address 200 members and her topic will be "Origin of Family Surnames." Miss Rule's column, "What Your Name Means," appears in the Citizen-News on Saturday and the organization's other weekly publications on Wednesdays and Thursdays and also in four other California newspapers, and is widely read by genealogists of Southern California. She receives more than 200 letters a week asking for the origin and a brief genealogy of the readers' family names. Miss Rule picks out the root word, which most names contain, and from this is able to ascertain the meaning.
